Wollaston Certificate in Theology Elective Unit: Critical Thinking

Critical thinking is essential to any educational process as well as to citizens living in a society. Achieving a high level of critical thinking is one of the most important goals of education. It is only when learning how to critically approach an essay, a question, or a problem, for example, that a person does something freely.

To argue is to make something clear as the meaning of the Latin root arguere makes clear. This unit aims to enhance the thinking and communication skills that are fundamental to your studies. Employers in most professions and industries regard these abilities as essential. Critical thinking demands rigorous and reasoned analysis, imagination and insight. In this unit you will develop and practise these skills and learn how to structure a strong argumentative essay.

ToL Saturday Practicum - Practicing Centering Prayer

Wollaston Theological College, Mount Claremont
Saturday 6 April - 9 am (8.30 am arrival) - 12 noon

A suitable professional development day for those in pastoral practice
Any interested person may attend

The Learning Outcomes are:

1. A greater understanding of and engagement with the practice of Centering Prayer.
2. An awareness of the benefits of Centering Prayer in enabling greater access to peace, rest in God, improved well being, enhanced compassion and understanding, and expansion of receptivity to God.
3. An appreciation of the literature and research forming the knowledge base of both the practice and benefits of Centering Prayer.

The facilitator is the Ven Michael Pennington, who has been engaged with Centering Prayer since being taught by one of its founders, Thomas Keating, in the 1980s.

What is Centering Prayer?

Centering Prayer is a discipline of intentional silence, dealing with the inevitable internal resistance.

The experience of the deeper self begins with stopping the constant activity of ordinary awareness.

The aim is to be open and available to God as you go on in this prayer in secret (Matthew 6:6) in letting go, which is the heart of the Centering Prayer.

Centering Prayer offers a solution to the active mind; as you catch yourself thinking, you let go of the thought. In releasing the thought, you align yourself with your consent to the presence and action of God within.

Centering Prayer is a way to go below one's surface beyond ordinary consciousness with its reason, imagination and emotions in becoming aware of and moving beyond areas of attachment. When unconscious impressions appear from pain buried within us, Centering Prayer gives permission to the divine presence for one's inner healing.

The art of letting go is summarised through the four "Rs". Resist no thought; Retain no thought; React to no thought; Return to the sacred word.

Centering Prayer teaches that the fruit of prayer is found in daily life as the divine transformation is shown in daily life in meeting life's changing circumstances with flexibility and compassion.

GRACE ANGLICAN CHURCH

Cnr of Grand Boulevard and Shenton Avenue, Joondalup

SEEKING A PRIEST

The Anglican Parish of Joondalup is seeking a half time Priest who is looking to lead them into a chapter of further growth and community building.

Grace Church is a distinctive parish being in a joint venture with the health department and the State government. It has a beautiful and quite different worship space, with the parish having no responsivity for the upkeep of its infrastructure.

Grace Church is located the heart of Joondalup, across the road from Joondalup Health Campus and sees itself a vital part of a wholistic healing ministry. It is an inclusive community focused church, with the emphasis on “Unity in Diversity”.

Worship at Grace Church is in the traditional Anglican style, with a focus on Faith in Jesus and love for God.

This role will require someone with solid leadership skills, a passion for diversity in the community, for family and children’s ministry and the ability to enable parishioners to grow in their calling to ministry.

Expressions of Interest form for completion and return available from perth.anglican.org

Chaplaincy Manager

Director of the Spirituality Centre

- Is God calling you to lead our Spirituality Centre?
 - Do you have a passion for the spiritual life?
 - Do you want to encourage others in their journey with God?

St George's Cathedral is on the look out for a new member of the clergy team who will lead our Spirituality Centre into its next phase. For many years, the Spirituality Centre has been an important part of the Cathedral's outreach and mission, as it helped people connect with God and search for life's meaning.

Our new Director will help people in their life with God through providing a welcoming programme that encourages people to learn to rest in God, to let God love them, to let that love flow out into the world, as they recognise and respond to God's presence and love in every aspect of life.

We hope our new Director will use the teachings and insights of spiritual writers and teachers down the centuries to ignite a passion for the spiritual life in the twenty-first century.
