Welcome to Roxbury's Auction no.118

FOREWORD

Welcome to Roxbury's Auction No. 118 which is our first major sale of the new year. It has been a busy period for the company with several auctions coming together, including our first specialist art sale; there are some fantastic pieces in the sale so please check them out. We also have another jewellery auction coming up which has really began to grow into an impressive stand-alone sale and social event!

Following our acquisition of the Australasian Coin & Banknote magazine, we have been hard at work bringing a new look and content to that platform. It has been a huge job with much still to do, but it is coming together nicely and hopefully will be well received when the first issue hits the shelves in March.

Auction 118 has quietly come together over the last few months with a record number of vendors and a vast range of quality numismatics and collectables. Early in the sale we have the beginning of a wonderful collection of Great War Australian gold fob medals; the consignment was included at the last minute so there is opportunity for someone willing to research the service histories of the individuals they were issued to. We are hoping the rest of the collection will be included in the July sale.

Once again we have a strong offering of Australian and New Zealand trade tokens including some exceptionally rare pieces; following the strong results achieved for the trade tokens in auction no. 114, this current offering is sure to get the interest of both the trade and collectors. Later on day one we have a huge selection of mint issues and PCGS-graded decimal coins which have been incredibly strong in the last 6 months.

The pre-decimal coin content is strong with a string of top population coins. All the key issues are there, including two examples of the rare 1930, the 'King of Australian Pennies;' a collectable grade 1922/1 overdate threepence, an uncirculated 1932 florin and a nearly complete date run of KGV shillings in mint state. Later in the day there is a nice collection of ancient Roman coins including some scarcer types.

The World coin segment is particularly strong in this sale with an opportunity to buy high grade and scarce examples of British hammered, early United States half dollars, early Dutch issues and Chinese Republic issues. In the World banknotes there is an unprecedented selection of New Zealand specimen issues and an exceptionally rare specimen album set of Singapore banknotes from 1976.

There is also one of the strongest offerings of Australian pre-decimal notes that we have had for some time; it will be interesting to see how this re-emerging market responds to the temptation of buying some high quality notes. Consecutive runs of high grade banknotes is the theme, typically with superb paper quality!

Overall it is an impressive sale with great opportunity for collectors and dealers! As always I would like to thank my team who have worked tirelessly in recent times to keep up with the growing business and new opportunities we have in front of us. Good luck to all bidders participating, we expect strong sale results for our consignors and another great year in the numismatic industry!

Lot 326 RAAF/RAF 617 (Dambusters) Squadron DFC and Bar Recipient 'Tirpitz' and 'Lutzow' Actions, Group of Three to Australian DFC & Bar Recipient, 1939 - 1945

EF $2000 - $3000

Correctly impressed group, comprising British War, Defence and Australian Service medals, unmounted, to 414844 J. L. SAYERS. [3]

Flight Lieutenant John Lyall Sayers, born Brisbane, Queensland on 21/2/1921, enlisted RAAF 467 squadron in 9/11/1941, into RAF 617 Precision Bombing squadron (Dambusters) as Acting Flight Lieutenant. He is listed as 'Pilot' and was awarded the DFC after the successful sinking of the 'Tirpitz', and again awarded the Bar to DFC (gazetted 4/12/1945) for the sinking of the 'Lutzow' in April 1945. Discharged 1946 from RAF Gamston.

RAF 617 (Dambusters) Precision Bombing squadron was formed at RAF Scampton on 21 March 1943 from personnel from Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, as well as British. It was formed for the specific task of attacking three major dams that contributed water and power to the Ruhr industrial region in Germany: the Möhne, Eder and Sorpe. The squadron had to develop the tactics to deploy Barnes Wallis's 'bouncing bomb'.

Throughout the rest of the war, the squadron continued in a specialist and precision-bombing role, including the use of the enormous 'Tallboy' and 'Grand Slam' ground-penetrating earthquake bombs, on targets such as concrete U-boat shelters and bridges. Several failed attempts were made on the Dortmund-Ems Canal in 1943 before it was finally breached with Tallboys in September 1944. In March 1945 the squadron used the Grand Slam bomb for the first time, against the Bielefeld viaduct, wrecking it. The viaduct had withstood 54 previous attacks without being permanently neutralized.

The Squadron participated in a series of attacks on the Tirpitz (sister ship to the 'Bismarck'), a major German battleship that had been moved into a fjord in northern Norway from where she threatened the Arctic convoys. Too far north to be attacked by air from the UK, she had been damaged by an attack by midget submarines and a series of attacks from carrier-borne aircraft. However, both attacks had failed to sink her. No. 617 and No. IX Squadrons were then deployed to a Russian airfield within range of Tirpitz. On 15 Sep 1944, the RAF bombers struck the battleship in the forecandle with a Tallboy bomb, which rendered her unseaworthy, but did not sink her. Sent to the Tromsø fjord for temporary repairs, she was anchored as a floating battery. However, this fjord was now in range of bombers operating from Scotland and from there, in October, she was attacked again. Finally on 12 Nov 1944, the two squadrons again attacked Tirpitz, and although the first bombs missed their target, following aircraft scored two direct hits in quick succession. Within ten minutes of the first bomb hitting the Tirpitz, she suffered a magazine explosion and capsized killing 1,000 of her 1,700 crew.

The third operation by the squadron against the German pocket battleship 'Lutzow', which was moored at Swinemunde in the Kiel canal (now Swinejousie Poland). Although immobilised through lack of fuel the warship was using its guns to shell the advancing red army. The first two raids were aborted due to bad weather. On the final raid heavy flak was encountered over the target from both the ship and shore batteries, one Lancaster was shot down (No 617 Squadron's last loss of the war) and all but 2 aircraft were damaged. 15 aircraft managed to bomb the target with Tallboys or with 1,000-pounders. The effects of one near miss with a Tallboy tore a large hole in the bottom of the Lützow and she sank in shallow water at her moorings.

During the Second World War the Squadron carried out 1,599 operational sorties with the loss of 32 aircraft.

Unfortunately missing the vital DFC and bar and Air Crew Europe star, extremely rare group to the most famous RAAF/RAF Squadron. Sold with copy photos of the Squadron, F/L Sayers and the battleships.

Strange served aboard HMS Carnarvon (built 1905). The Carnarvon chased and sank the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau at the Battle of the Falklands.

Strange later served aboard HMS Magnificent (built 1894) during the Gallipoli Landings as a troopship after her recommissioning on 9 Sept 1915, along with her similarly disabled sister ships Hannibal and Mars. The three former battleships departed England on this duty 22 September 1915, arriving at Mudros on 7 October 1915. On 18/19 December 1915, Magnificent took part in the evacuation of Allied troops from Suvla Bay. She departed the Dardanelles in February 1916 after the conclusion of the campaign.

Able Seaman Strange was also on service on HMS Delhi (built 1919). On 15 November 1925, HMS Delhi left Malta in the company of HMAS Sydney and Adelaide on a goodwill tour including Ceylon, Fremantle, Hobart, Jervis Bay, Sydney, Christchurch and Wellington. Worthy of further research.

Lot 340 Cap Badge, 1914 - 1918

Imperial Camel Corps bronze rising sun cap badge, with 3 lugs to reverse, scarce.

The Imperial Camel Corps Brigade (ICCB) was a camel-mounted infantry brigade, one battalion each from Great Britain and New Zealand and two battalions from Australia, raised in December 1916 during the Great War for service in the Middle East. The brigade fought in several battles and engagements - the Senussi, Sinai and Egypt Campaign, and the Arab Revolt. The brigade suffered 246 men killed. Some A.I.F. units and corps in the Great War 'adapted' the official 1904 pattern Rising Sun hat badge to create unique designs to reflect their structure or role. The Australian Imperial Camel Corps created its unique design that was never approved for use by Australia's military commanders. Not to be confused with modern restrikes.
