

Bush Support Line 1800 805 391

- A free, confidential 24/7 telephone support line
- For all health workers working in rural, remote and isolated communities, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health workers and practitioners, the allied health workforce, and other staff involved in health service delivery
- Staffed by psychologists with remote and cross-cultural experience
- Available from anywhere in Australia
- Available every day of the year
- Also available to family members of the rural, remote and isolated health workforce