To whom it may concern,

I am writing to comment on the Exhibition of Newcastle Urban Renewal Strategy .

I am most dismayed at the idea that the rail line will be cut. For many years I lived in the Cooks Hill/Bar Beach area, and frequently used Civic Station to go to various places in the Newcastle area and to Central Station in Sydney (and on to the International Terminal) -- it is a very convenient way to travel, especially with luggage. It would be far less convenient if one had to change to/from another means of transport. Although I no longer live in this area, I will use the Newcastle and Civic stations frequently when travelling to or from other destinations, such as Broadmeadow.

It would be a tragedy if the rail line were cut, and I would ask you to consider the wishes of commuters living in the area and rethink this decision.

Regards, Alan Libert.
