To whom it my concern.

My uncle has just told me of the plan to build apartments and town houses across the area of Cherrybrook he and his wife live in. I am shocked by this news and object to the plan. Cherrybrook is a quiet, residential area with a maze of little dead end roads and more houses than you at first think.

It is crazy to think that another 1800 homes will fit well there and the increase in traffic will be completely unmanageable. Sydney is growing but homes should be built in areas that can sustain them not in places where you will just create chaos.
