I live in Black Hill. Our family came here 40 years ago for the rural lifestyle, peace-and-quiet and proximity to work. I love this area because of the natural habitat and wildlife - just looking out that back window I can see wallabies munching on grass. We have very few services. We have to have our own septic tank, we have dirt roads, the internet is slower than dial-up speed and the mobile coverage is intermittent. However, we weigh up all this with the peaceful living and natural living we have the privilege to enjoy everyday. If John Renshaw Drive is to be even further developed, the way-of-life we moved here for is gone. The traffic will increase even more; the noise is bad enough as it is. More native animals will be run over by people speeding through Black Hill Road/John Renshaw Drive. There are so many other areas that are available for industrial land. The Catholic Church bought the land when it was zoned rural - they want two bites of the cherry by rezoning it to industrial. They receive a massive capital gain without paying tax while destroying the area of the community that lives here. We may not number many, but we are tight-nit and supportive. Please consider our way-of-life, the natural flora and fauna and the planet when you make your decision.
