

Home in One Piece: The Board

A game of strategy for two players using play dough

By David K Butler 2014

The following two pages can be used to print and create your own board for Home in One Piece.

1. Print two copies of each page, each on a separate page.
2. If you can, print them so that the grey home zone goes all the way to the edge of the page.
If you can't do that, then trim the printed pages afterwards so that the grey home zone does go all the way to the edge of the page. (It works well to put all the pages together as you do this so that they are still the same size as each other after you cut them.)
3. Laminate the four pages separately.
4. Tape the laminated pages together on the reverse side to make a larger rectangle with the home zone along the top and circles along the bottom.
5. If you would like to fold up the board, only tape three of the joining edges.

Home in One Piece

A game of strategy for two players using play dough

By David K Butler 2014

Home in One Piece

A game of strategy for two players using play dough

By David K Butler 2014

