

Reimagining Your Creek Arnolds Creek, Melton West Community Update

April 2020

The Reimagining Arnolds Creek project has created a desirable open space where people can interact with nature. The 1400 metre section of Arnolds Creek that has been redesigned extends from Bulmans Road in the west and from Cambrian Way to High Street, Melton West. We worked with our project partners and the community to redesign this open space.

Works to finish May 2020

After one year of works, we are pleased to announce that major construction work will finish in early May 2020.

Our construction partner, Safety Focused Performance (SFP), delivered this project on behalf of Melbourne Water.

SFP will continue with minor work in the area, while Melbourne Water will start planting in Arnolds Creek from May.

Arnolds Creek will then open to the general public in late July/August 2020.

What was involved

We've now completed the urban landscaping features, implemented from your ideas and are now keen to begin the next stage.

You'll see some major changes to the area including:

- the creation of the central zone with shelter and education areas, tables and seating
- footpaths and walkways throughout the creek
- the removal of the above ground concrete channel and Cambrian Way concrete drain
- increased plants and greenery.

We will start planting more than 200,000 native trees and plants within the new creek bed and the open space.

You'll soon be able to experience the rejuvenated section of Arnolds Creek.

Through our community engagement activities we heard what was important to you, what you wanted changed, and how this open space could be redesigned to meet your priorities and preferences. Thanks for your ideas and suggestions.

Through this project, we have created an open space that has been designed by the community, for the community.
