Comments: I grew up in East Gippsland and believe it is the most beautiful place having traveled much of the world as a younger woman. My family has lived here for generations. My parents were Australian Champion Estuary Fishing people and we spent much of our childhood on the Gippsland Lakes. Our pristine environment must be protected and the people respected. The mine is not suited to the planned place. It's morally, ethically and environmentally wrong. In my university days, picking beans in summer allowed me to save money and get ahead. I cannot possibly conceive the farms out there in Lindenow will be compromised, and so many people's livelihoods jeopardised. Not only that, there are many heritage sites out there, what a disgrace to mine on such places in this day and age.
