How do you think we should improve the FFG Act?	I support stronger protection for biodiversity and native wildlife which are constantly under attack from industries like forestry but also reductions in government support. I encourage stronger enforcement against those who break these laws, especially illegal removal of mature trees. However, I note certain iconic species (leadbeater possum, orange bellied parrot) require considerable resources to maintain a desperately-small native population. I think it would be better to maintain a small group in artificial environment until a suitable environment can be created, or just admit defeat. In any case this species-preservation is biased. I am sure many non-cuddly species like beetle have come and gone without anyone caring.
