Preventing rat-running on Avon Street

The project design for North East Link considers options to prevent Avon Street being used as a rat-run between Manningham Road and the North East Link tunnels. Further design work, together with input from Council and local residents, will help inform the final detailed project design. Options currently under consideration are shown below.

Cul-de-sac option

Turn access into Avon Street only option

Avon Street becomes a cul-de-sac (no connection to Bulleen Road).

No right hand turn from Austin Street onto Bulleen Road.

No right hand turn from Austin Street onto Bulleen Road.

This is one design solution for how this interchange could work. The builder we appoint to construct North East Link may have other design ideas for this complex interchange.
