

First of all I'd like to thank for providing this opportunity. The proposed changes in the Real Estate industry will definitely be beneficial overall. I strongly agree and support the new regulations as they will not only benefit the industry but at the same time individuals as well who want to pursue a successful career in this industry and make themselves a good fortune.

This will also equip them with adequate and necessary skills required in this field such as honesty, dignity, commitment, ethics, etc. As per my opinion and experience, an agent must have above mentioned skills in order to generate great results and positive outcome which can only come with proper education and more importantly appropriate experience.

Another thing that I'd like to state here is that for anyone to gain an Estate Agent License, the most important requirement should be that they have to work FULL TIME for a certain period of time so that they gather all the expertise to run an agency successfully without any conflicts and minimal complaints. Last but not the least, it is a highly appreciable initiative to maintain and uphold the reputation of this vast industry which has been and will support economy of this great nation for years to come!

Thanks & regards
