Humans should be able to directly participate in natural ecosystems with wildlife as is our natural human right. Undertaking sustainably this should include hunting, fishing, food gathering ect. With direct participation people gain a deeper understanding and respect for wildlife including those sustainably taken to eat and will ensure wildlife and game animal populations and their environment are healthy so that the next generation may also directly participate in nature. There are many benefits of hunting game and understanding where food comes from. This is a precious insight in this day and age of mass consumerism and supermarkets.
