Dear Sirs,

Re: Wagering and Betting Discussion Paper for Victoria

Following the issuance of the above paper and preliminary meeting held back in April this year with the entity assigned by the VIC Authorities – Ernst & Young – in our premises, we have clearly mentioned that INTRALOT is more than willing to participate in any upcoming license opportunity (new bid process) and utilize the existing experience we have gained from our world-wide sports betting operations & projects.

At this stage, we are assessing all relevant documents provided, the existing legal framework and we will be waiting to review any amendments coming from the Government within 2019, so that we can come up with solid recommendations about the future of Wagering and Betting in Victoria.

In case it is requires, we are more than happy to welcome delegation from OLGR and their advisors in any of our world-wide Sports Betting Operations to assess local operations or meet in our Melbourne premises and share best practices and lessons learned from our experiences.

Yours sincerely

Marios Mitromaras
