Dear Sir or Madam,

I reviewed the background paper for the Inquiry into the Victorian on-demand workforce. While I don't have a specific comment, I did want to draw your attention to a recent international publication by the ILO which touches on many of the questions asked in the background paper.

While the ILO provides a more global review (as opposed to one which is specific to Australia), I nevertheless thought it might be helpful resource to inform the process. Some of the articles of the woman leading this work at the ILO (Janine Berg), are cited in the references, but no particular reference to this more comprehensive report was made.
