GEELONG

South Geelong to Waurin Ponds Duplication

Shared user path upgrade

We're upgrading sections of the walking and cycling route between South Geelong and Waurin Ponds, with new connections to provide safer journeys, improved access to the local area and better active transport options for the community.

Better connections

As part of the upgrade to the Geelong line, we're creating new shared user paths for cycling and walking to better connect communities between South Geelong and Waurin Ponds.

The alignment of the new shared user path follows the rail line, improving connections to public transport, existing rail trails and new green open space being delivered as part of the project.

Additional parkiteers and bike hoops will be provided at South Geelong and Marshall stations as well as at Waurin Ponds Station. Improved bicycle paths in and around the stations will provide better and safer connections to the shared user path.

Improvements to walking and cycling

New sections of the shared user path will include:

- the length of Carr Street
- Breakwater Road to Gundog Lane joining Barwon Heads Road
- along Station Road linking to Marshall Station
- Marshall Station to Reserve Road, then linking to Surf Coast Highway
- safety upgrades along Gundog Lane and South Barwon Reserve

New shared user paths will provide safe off-road travel options, including:

- safer paths to cross major intersections and access public transport and areas of interest
- better connections and a continuous route between South Geelong and Waurin Ponds
- wide paths to accommodate pedestrians and cyclists
