Fire sprinklers

If you are the owner of a building with a fire sprinkler, we recommend you notify your insurance company about the water shut off. If you are a tenant, please let your landlord know about the planned shut off.

Flush your pipes to stop debris getting into your drinking water

When the water is shut off and no water flows through the pipe, air can become trapped inside the pipe. When the water is reinstated, the air is released under pressure and can shake rust or scale from the pipe walls into the pipe.

To remove the rust, turn on your outside tap and allow the water to run through the pipes for a few moments. Flushing your pipes like this stops any debris being drawn into your home's plumbing and could save you having to call in a plumber later on.

You may see our team flush out the fire hydrants on your street after water has been turned back on.

Businesses

If you run a business or process that requires a constant supply of water, you must provide your own water during the shut off period.
