

OSTEOPATH

Chris finished at St Bede's in 1995, and went straight into studying Osteopathy at Victoria University, completing the 5 year course at the end of 2000. He established Parkdale Osteopathic Clinic in 2003, and what was once a one practitioner clinic, now boasts 5 osteopaths, a massage therapist and admin team. The clinic provides osteopathic care for people of all backgrounds and age groups within the Kingston region, with their primary objective being to restore mobility and discover vitality.
